And it's not just Indian asset managers that are stepping up. Henry McVey, Chief Investment Officer of KKR's Balance Sheet and Head of Global Macro and Asset Allocation, says he sees significant opportunities to both deploy and monetise capital across private equity, infrastructure, climate and credit franchises, aided by favourable macro tailwinds in India.

"Control deal activity is more robust, local capital markets are deeper, the policy backdrop is more cooperative and local business leaders are more engaged. In private credit, the opportunity set feels much more disciplined than what we saw during the non-bank financial company heyday just prior to Covid," says McVey.

KKR has been investing in private credit opportunities in India through its Asia-Pacific funds. For instance, it has extended $600 million credit financing to Manipal Education and Medical Group for expansion.

In January, the US-based global investment giant completed a $2.5 billion private credit fund raise. This included $1.8 billion in KKR Asia Credit Opportunities Fund II and $700 million raised from separately managed accounts focused on same types of investment opportunities. At close, this fund
