

DECODING CAPITAL MARKETS

Ashishkumar Chauhan,
MD & CEO, NSE

» Chauhan believes India remains structurally strong and well-positioned to handle near-term shocks

» He pointed out that India's limited capital account convertibility is an advantage, as it ensures that domestic savings are largely invested within India

LEADING THROUGH DISRUPTION

(From left) Madhavkrishna Singhanian, Jt MD & CEO, JK Cement; Sharvil Patel, MD, Zydus Lifesciences; Karan Bhagat, MD & CEO, 360 One Wam; Anurag Choudhary, CMD, Himadri Speciality Chemical; Harsh Shah, Director, Shree Naman Group

» On effects of the war on the cement sector, Singhanian said, "In you see the inflationary impact, it is around ₹30-40 per bag, and we haven't been able to pass it on"

» On the pharma sector, Patel said, "This has been a unique challenge... Maybe two months down the line, it would become a very large issue"

» "Disruption has become the norm. A company must be really resilient and take decisions," said Choudhary

» "There is a huge negative impact on the hospitality industry... We have seen about 5% revenue impact in the last quarter," weighed in Shah

» Finding hope in times of disquiet, Bhagat said, "Adversity is always the best opportunity"

PORTS OF PROSPERITY

(From left) Ashwin Arvind, Deputy Executive Director, PSA Mumbai

Capt. Bipin Kumar Dhiman, Nautical Surveyor & DDG (Tech), Government of India

» Speaking about trade disruptions, Arvind said, "We have adapted very quickly...We created additional capacity to handle transshipment cargo destined to West Asia"

» "We are working hard and our main focus, besides regulatory compliance, is to bring back the seafarers who are stuck," said Dhiman

FERTILISER RESILIENCE

Arun Alagappan,
Executive Chairman,
Coromandel
International

» Speaking about risks to inventory, Alagappan said that the industry is adequately covered in the near term, with sufficient raw material linkages and finished inventory in place for Q1

| 85

INNER ANCHOR IN TURBULENT TIMES

Swami Gaur Gopal Das, Monk, Life coach, Author

» Das delivered a clear message to business leaders: in times of uncertainty, restraint matters more than reaction. He focused on how leaders can maintain balance amid global disruptions