

PRANOD PUSHPAKARNA

"YOU CAN'T SHAKE HANDS WITH A CLENCHED FIST."

Indira Gandhi

She saw her plans pan out immaculately as the Charan Singh government collapsed even before it was able to get to its feet. With the incumbent Janata Party fractured by infighting and losing credibility before the public with its incessant anti-Indira rhetoric, all the former prime minister had to do to bring the house of cards crashing down was coin a classic line like "Choose a Government that Works" to seal the fate of her opponents.

L.K. ADVANI about the newly-formed BJP

"I do not mind if today somebody regards the Bharatiya Janata Party as a Hindu party."

ANGER RIGHT

Govind Nihalani gave a hint of things to come with his directorial debut, Aakrosh. The film, featuring the art frat including Om Puri, Naseeruddin Shah, Smita Patil and Amrish Puri, was based on a true story that was adapted for screen by Marathi playwright Vijay Tendulkar. The hard-hitting film established Nihalani as a no-nonsense director.

ELSEWHERE...

● Yugoslav President Tito died and the funeral ceremony saw more than 140 state delegations in Belgrade from all over the world.

● The Summer Olympic Games kicked off in Moscow. Sixty-six nations, including the US, Canada, West Germany and Japan, boycotted the games in protest against the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan.

● Former Beatle John Lennon died after being shot outside the Dakota Entrance of his New York City home, by Mark David Chapman, a deranged fan who had taken his autograph earlier in the day.

56

per cent of Indian women were in the age group of 15 to 19. The figure was higher than in many developed countries, where it was 39 per cent. This, despite India's infant mortality rate being a high 113 per 1,000 live births.