

"I FELT INDIAN POLITICS IN THE ABSENCE OF GANDHI//WOULD BE PRACTICAL AND ABLE TO RETALIATE."

NATHURAM GODSE during his trial at Red Fort

On November 15, Nathuram Vinayak Godse and Narayan Dattatreya Apte were hanged. The accused in the case are seen talking during the trial in a special court at the Red Fort in 1948.

Courtesy: Nehru Memorial Museum and Library

AP PHOTO

• Samuel Beckett (above) finished writing En Attendant Godot, which was translated into Waiting for Godot in 1953.

• Scientists at Mayo Clinic, US, announced the synthesising of a hormone, later called cortisone, useful in treating rheumatoid arthritis.

• The North Atlantic Treaty came into effect.

• South Africa established an apartheid programme.

• Soviet Union exploded its first A-bomb.

1,00,000

people who prayed at the site of Mahatma Gandhi's assassination on the first anniversary of his death.

4

new universities set up. This included the MS University in Baroda.

A POLITICAL WILL K.M. Cariappa

Lieutenant-General Kodandera Madappa Cariappa (left) became the first Indian to become Chief of Army Staff and commander-in-chief of the Indian Army, succeeding General Sir Roy Bucher. He was also the first Field Marshal in the Army. Cariappa soon became a thorn on Nehru's side. Moving away from military matters, in the early '50s, he started commenting on India's economic issues, provoking Nehru into asking him in 1952 to reduce the number of press conferences he was addressing.