

INDIA AT 60

PLANS OF ACTION

◀◀ REWIND

COURTESY NEHRU MEMORIAL AND LIBRARY

India went to the polls for the second time even as the second Five Year Plan was also put into motion. Inspired by Nehru's vision of an industrialised nation, P.C. Mahalanobis prioritised the development of the public sector and paid attention to domestic production of industrial products. He travelled to different parts of the world in 1954, researching economic models, before presenting what came to be called the Mahalanobis model where qualitative problems found quantitative solution. The honeymoon lasted till 1966, when a "Plan holiday" was declared till 1969 and decision-making moved to the Finance Ministry.

CINEMATIC CROSSING

Indian films were on a global roll. Jaagte Raho won the main prize at Karlovy Vary and Pather Panchali was declared Best Picture at San Francisco. Mother India had a rare preview at a mainstream New York theatre and was India's entry to the Oscars. Do Aankhen Bara Haath was a hit at the Berlin film fest.

FIRST CUT

• The Indian Air Force got its first jet bomber, the Canberra. It was the only bomber till the 1970s.

• MV Andaman became the first passenger-cum-cargo vessel built by Hindustan Shipyard in Visakhapatnam.
