

NEHRU MEMORIAL LIBRARY

"THE TRIP ISN'T A FASHION SHOW FOR MRS KENNEDY."

So said an American spokesman. But whether it was her evening dress or her size 10A shoes, the "Amriki Rani", who visited India months before the war, created a stir wherever she went. Jacqueline Kennedy put a gulaal tika on Jawaharlal Nehru, who had issued a personal invitation.

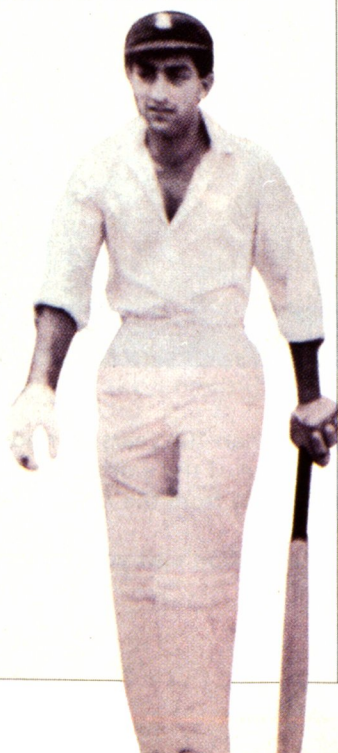

AN AREA OF DARKNESS

Visiting India for the first time, Trinidad-born writer V.S. Naipaul stayed on for two years. "It was a journey that ought not to have been made; it had broken my life in two," Naipaul wrote in his book An Area of Darkness.

THE NAWAB AT PLAY

Mansoor Ali Khan Pataudi

Educated at Winchester and Oxford, the ninth nawab of Pataudi, Mansoor Ali Khan—better known as Tiger Pataudi—became the youngest Test captain at 21 when he led the Indian cricket team touring the West Indies. A few months later, a car accident permanently damaged vision in his right eye. The bold batsman captained Sussex five years later. Having debuted in the India vs England Test series in 1961, Pataudi played in 46 Test matches between 1961 and 1975. He also contested the 1971 elections to the Lok Sabha to protest the abolition of privy purses in India.

- Nelson Mandela (below) was arrested after living on the run for 17 months. He was jailed and finally released, 27 years later, in 1990.

HT LIBRARY

- Algeria won its freedom from France after a bloody seven-year war of independence. A referendum on independence in Algeria saw six million of the 6.5-million electorate vote.

- The United Nations announced that the Earth's population had hit three billion.

361

was the number of seats, out of 494, won by the Congress in the Lok Sabha. The Congress got 44.72 per cent of the total votes. The second-largest winner was the Communist Party of India, trailing way behind with just 29 seats.