

SIPRA DAS

"Embarrassing Choice",
July 9, 2007

"Why is media so keen on a clean imaged
President when the entire polity of the country is corrupt?
Mera Bharat mahaan, hum sab beimaan."

BRIJESH BARTHWAAL, Lucknow

Wrong Choice

It is a rule that whenever the Congress forms the government at the Centre, priority is given to loyalty to the Nehru-Gandhi family ("Embarrassing Choice", July 9). The present choice, however, has surpassed all levels of arrogance.

B.J. PANDYA, Rajkot

Pratibha Patil cannot be worse than former President Giani Zail Singh who was even willing to sweep the floor if Indira Gandhi asked him to.

Y.N.I. ANAND, Mysore

Patil possesses neither "pratibha" (talent), nor the goodwill to do justice to the country's highest office. This choice is as poor as Abdul Kalam's was brilliant.

VIRENDRA KUMAR TANGRI,
Dehradun

There was a reason behind Patil being chosen the candidate for the President's post. With Navin Chawla poised to be the next chief election commissioner, a pliable President will be the second pole of a configuration conducive for the party, or specifically the Family. BISHAN SAHAI, on e-mail

Is it right to push the allegations made by a not-so-credible Opposition? The magazine, it seems, is unwilling to let go any opportunity to malign Mrs Gandhi and her party. N. BALAKESAVAN, Mumbai

By nominating Patil for the high office of President, Sonia seems to have done one better than Emperor Caligula from her native Italy who was insane enough to nominate his horse as a senator. RENU SOOD, Delhi

The Opposition should take heart if Patil occupies the Rashtrapati Bhavan.

It would only prove their contention that the Congress is a patron of tainted politicians. S.M. MATHUR, Lucknow

All possible accommodations and manipulations are possible in the sordid cesspool of politics and the Congress party is a master in the art of deceit. That is the only way one can explain the presence of Patil in the Presidential race.

ANJIM M. SAMEL,
on e-mail

Sorry State of Affairs

His legendary equations with all notwithstanding, the numbers are stacked against Bhairon Singh Shekhawat ("Fight of the Patriarch", July 9). This fight has a parallel in Mahabharata where Krishna came to Draupadi's rescue with a slight difference that there will be no Krishna to save Draupadi (read the democracy) today for we have become a country of moral pygmies.

H.R. BAPU SATYANARAYANA,
Mysore

Maya's Maya

Even the highest authority of the land does not have the guts to question the phenomenal wealth Mayawati has acquired in such a short time ("Poor Little Rich Girl", July 9). What is admirable is her grit when she declared that she got the moolah from her admirers. But who cares? At least not Manmohan or Sonia.

RAVI BEDI, Jodhpur

It is really sad to see that politicians, especially those who were born as a result of the quota politics, always get away with murder. The Congress needs Maya's support to help get its "tainted" nominee installed in the Rashtrapati Bhavan and has, thus, turned a blind eye to her misdemeanour. A.K. SHARMA, Chandigarh