

THE BUZZ OF THE WEEK

The Congress cornering prime property in Delhi by floating trusts is old hat. It is now the BSP's turn to go on a buying spree and the party reportedly paid over Rs 40 crore last week for a bungalow in posh Sunder Nagar.

VOICES

"The CPI(M) has lost its ideology. Money is honey for them. They are now batting for the multinationals."

Mamata Banerjee, Trinamool Congress chief

"The prime minister has demeaned earlier Presidents by comparing (Pratibha) Patil with them. No presidential candidate has ever been involved in so many controversies."

Prakash Javdekar, BJP spokesman

"We're going through unique dynamics due to the shortage of leadership with nobility. The only hope is the judiciary with its excellence and impeccable integrity."

A.P.J. Abdul Kalam, President of India

"Sometimes I am disappointed when people from India heap praise on our dictator (President Musharraf). I can only ask them, 'Are you coming from the caves?'"

Asma Jahangir, Pakistani human rights activist

"I was exhausting my money. Today I need money, a little more name and fame. To struggle for the second time in life is more interesting. Only, now I am more aware and wiser."

Govinda, actor and Congress Lok Sabha member
