

exhibition Show Time

KOLKATA Zee Cinema's film festival, The Showman Show, will have an exhibition of memorabilia, production stills, costumes and props as well as special screenings of Raj Kapoor films every Sunday night at 8.30 p.m.. Working in tandem with Randhir Kapoor, the legendary filmmaker's son, the by-invitation-only exhibition was unveiled in Mumbai earlier this month and comprises relics that the Kapoor family has stored from films over the years. The exhibition travels to Delhi and Kolkata in September.

Reinventing the magic of Kapoor's blockbusters are costumes from Shri 420; his whip and doll from Mera Naam Joker; production stills of Satyam Shivam Sundaram; the knife he used in Awara; Rishi Kapoor's leather jacket from Bobby and numerous pictures dug out from the depths of the prop room at R.K. Studio.

Indranil Sengupta, senior marketing manager at Zee Cinema, says, "The Showman Show is a tribute to the legends of Indian cinema. We wanted to build on the title that was conferred upon the great Kapoor by the film industry itself. Creating loyalty on a television cinema channel is the greatest challenge since the product may have been viewed many times earlier. On our trip to R.K. Studio, we were taken to the prop room and the old sets of films. I thought it would be a good idea to showcase this memorabilia and bring the audience closer to the legend."

The channel has also introduced the concept of Aaj Bhi Raj: A Retrospect, a one-minute interstitial that will run during the films. The hits to be screened include Prem Rog, Ram Teri Ganga Maili, Sangam, Kal Aaj aur Kal, Bobby, Mera Naam Joker, Dharam Karam, Biwi O Biwi and Prem Granth. "After showcasing Kapoor's films, we will start with Subhash Ghai's," Sengupta adds. For fans who think they've known the master actor and his films well, it's time to tune in and put their knowledge to test.

by Swati Mathur

KAPOOR CLAN: (L-R) Shashi, Raj, Pritivi, Shammi

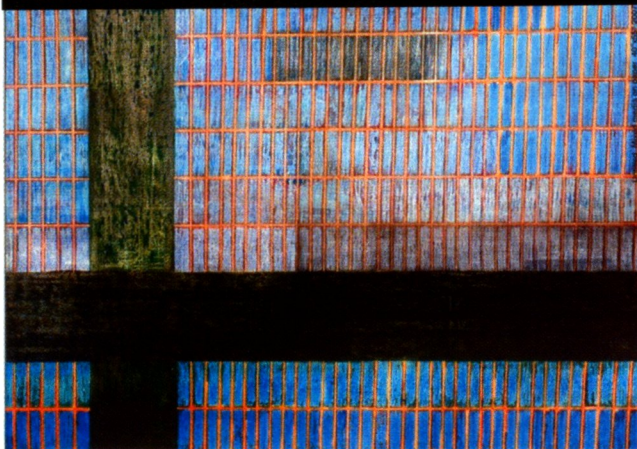

art Water Collage

BANGALORE The coming week will see the city play host to two art exhibitions. On display will be the works of Bangladeshi artist Rokeya Sultana, a leading printmaker and painter from Dhaka. Sultana has exhibited her all-embracing opaque water colours or gouache works extensively in the subcontinent and in Europe and America. In the fluid and inviting motifs running through her works there seem to be no predictable points of references in what can be called light-hearted and yet thought-provoking canvases that seek to stimulate comment and invite participation. Also exhibiting is Pavan Kumar whose work, titled Urban Existence, has a running theme of looking through windows and grills. The artist says this has been an obsession with him for long. Gates, windows and grills swathe the canvases creating a multitude of smaller frames. "As a frame, the window doesn't open to reveal just one absolute world. It becomes an allegory to a multiple subjective world," he says.

At Gallery Sumukha till September 11.

by Nirmala Ravindran

Kumar's Urban Existence

music On a Prayer

Celebrate Janmashtami with Music Today's Complete Prayer Kit, a collection of music and praying tools devoted to Lord Krishna. Krishna is the patron God of Indian musicians, as he is the embodiment of all the art forms. The two audio CDs are a compendium of Gayatri, Chalisa, Aarti,

The devotional kit among others, composed by flute maestro Pandit Hariprasad Chaurasia and sung by Ravindra Sathe. The kit includes an idol of Krishna and tulsi beads and is priced at Rs 790.