

Top 10

■ By Shruti Maheshwari

What is the perfect recipe for a successful business school? Stunning exteriors with marble flooring—well-equipped labs and libraries, tie-ups with weighty foreign B-schools, international visiting faculty an impeccable record of 100 per cent placement on day one? If you're following those glitzy ads in news dailies, you might think these are enough to work the magic.

Think again.

The latest survey commissioned by Business Today (BT)—a sister concern of INDIA TODAY—reveals that the trinity of infrastructure, faculty and placements is being discarded for more encompassing parameters. Faculty has been overtaken by teaching methodology, placements by reputation and infrastructure is vying with specialist units for attention to determine individual brand equity. This is why IIMS-A, B and C have been able to retain the top three slots and institutes like IIM-Delhi and Sydeham, Mumbai, have managed to spring a surprise by hitting the charts for the first time this year.

Ask the director of the Association of Indian Management Schools, Uday

Salunkhe, what differentiates a good B-school from the others and he says, "A good school should ideally play the role of a futurist. It should be able to recognise, act and then secure the future by determining what students should know five years from now, today."

So, what exactly is the criteria for identifying the B-schools of the future?

	2007	2006	2005
1 IIM Ahmedabad (www.iimahd.ernet.in)	1	1	1
2 IIM Bangalore (www.iimb.ernet.in)	2	2	2
3 IIM Calcutta (www.iimcal.ac.in)	3	4	4
4 SIBM Pune (www.sibm.edu)	4	8	8
5 IIM Lucknow (www.iiml.ac.in)	5	6	6
6 IIM Indore (www.iimidr.ac.in)	8	17	17
6 JBIMS Mumbai (www.jbims.edu)	7	9	9
8 XLRI Jamshedpur (www.Xlri.edu)	6	5	5
9 ICFAI Hyderabad (www.ifcai.org)	13	13	13
10 NMIMS Mumbai (www.nmims.edu)	17	10	10