

BEHIND PKL TEAMS

TEAMS AND OWNERS

BENGAL WARRIORZ

Capri Global & Akshay Kumar

TAMIL THALAIVAS

Magnum Sports Private Ltd
(Sachin Tendulkar, N. Prasad, Allu Arjun, and Ram Charan)

HARYANA STEELERS

JSW Sports

BENGALURU BULLS

WL League
Private Ltd

TELOGU TITANS

Veera Sports (Srinivas
Sreeramaneni, Mahesh Kolli, and NED Group)

JAIPUR PINK PANTHERS

Abhishek
Bachchan

DABANG DELHI K.C.

Radha Kapoor
Khanna

PATNA PIRATES

Rajesh Shah (KVS Energy and Sports Ltd)

U MUMBA

Ronnie
Screwvala

GUJARAT GIANTS

Adani
Sportsline

PUNERI PALTAN

Insurekot Sports
Private Ltd

UP YODDHAS

GMR Group

THE ECONOMICS BEHIND PRO KABADDI LEAGUE

PKL's franchise economics were built to be low-risk from day one. There was no public bidding war for Season 1 slots in 2014, unlike the IPL.

Mashal Sports instead hand-picked credible corporate and entertainment figures and set a fixed fee. Owners paid an annual franchise fee of ₹1.5 crore, while each of the eight original teams had a player-salary cap of ₹60 lakh for a 12-player roster. The first season cost owners roughly ₹4-5 crore in all, according to the industry insider quoted above.

Those economics have been transformed. Mashal Sports has earlier claimed that each franchise is now valued at more than ₹100 crore each. Players now command bids exceeding ₹2 crore. Mohammadreza Shadloui Chiyaneh became PKL's most expensive player at the 2025 auction, going to Gujarat Giants for ₹2.23 crore.

Like the IPL and other sports leagues, PKL runs on a centrally pooled revenue-sharing model that brings together media rights, sponsorships, ticketing and merchandise.

Mashal Sports distributes most media-rights revenue, estimated at around ₹180 crore per season, to franchises, which supplement it with sponsorships, ticket sales and merchandise.

On the cost side, a salary cap of roughly ₹5 crore per team keeps operations lean and all the franchises have moved closer to commercial viability. Celebrity or corporate-backed owners, such as Abhishek Bachchan's Jaipur Pink Panthers and Capri

SOURCE PRO KABADDI LEAGUE, BT RESEARCH