

| THE POINT |

INDIA'S DIVESTMENT REPORT CARD

Since the 1990s, the government of India has been slowly stepping away from running businesses. To finance its spending priorities and commitments, and keep the fiscal deficit under control, it periodically raises funds through disinvestment, selling stakes in public sector enterprises. Here's how India's divestment initiatives have fared so far

By Ujjwal Thakur

Graphic by Tanmoy Chakraborty

THE BIGGEST DEALS

The centre's disinvestment story has been shaped by a few blockbusters. Stake sales in Coal India and other public sector enterprises added substantially to collections in the last five years

LIC of India
(FY23)
₹20,516 Cr
[3.5%]

Coal India
(FY27#)
₹5,542 Cr
[2%]

Others/
SUUTI (FY23)
₹5,125 Cr*

BHEL
(FY26)
₹4,465 Cr
[5%]

THE BIG PICTURE

India raised over ₹1.1 lakh crore through Central Public Sector Enterprise (CPSE) disinvestment between FY22 and FY27. Receipts peaked in FY23 at ₹35,294 crore, due to the LIC IPO, before moderating over the subsequent years

SOURCE DEPARTMENT OF
INVESTMENT AND PUBLIC ASSET
MANAGEMENT (DIPAM)

