

THE NEW RULES

Early retirement is about escaping compulsion, not work

Financial independence matters more than quitting work

The biggest question isn't how much money, but how much is enough

A successful transition requires emotional readiness, identity beyond work, and community

The future may lie between burnout and retirement: work less, live more, contribute meaningfully
