

GET SHORTY Keep it sexy with the new length that kisses the derriere. Short shorts made an appearance on Monisha Jaising (far left) and Falguni & Shane Peacock's ramp.

PRET PERFECT

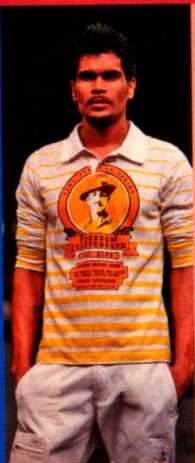

The must-haves this spring-summer. Go short, white, shiny and Indian; take your pick.

COMBINED

Voluminous silhouettes set the floor on fire with the fashionable full-length dress. Bal and Gauri & Nainika made sweeping statements in stylish pewter and houndstooth dresses.

INDIAN TOUCH

From Tahiliani's show opening to the tunes of the national anthem to Fightercock's Cent Percent Indian (left) where Bhagat Singh and Subhash Chandra Bose met tee graffiti, India made a couture comeback.

LITTLE WHITE DRESS

The must-have this season. Rajesh Pratap, Anita Dongre and Namrata Joshipura (right) impressed with white.

walked the ramp as did a handful of his designer friends—Malini Ramani, Rina Dhaka, Rohit Gandhi and Ritu Kumar among others, dressed in their own creations in keeping with his palette. A perfect balance of theatrics and trend, his collections Intertwined and Syahi got a standing ovation. While the Delhi designer kept true to his word and made sure the 'filmies' stayed off his finale ramp, WIFW saw a surge of Bollywood babes and vacuous wannabes take a prêt-ty pirouette.

Much as Delhi's chatterati likes to scoff at filmy shenanigans, from the moment Shilpa Shetty stepped on the ramp for Tarun Tahiliani, the starry tone for the event was set. Though showstoppers like Shetty and Lara Dutta (who walked for Rocky S), stepped up the oomph quotient, the buzz was largely missing from the fashion week. There was more fizz in the talk at the hopping Olive at the Week restaurant, where fashionistas caught up over Caesar salads, mushroom risottos and chocolate suicides.

They say the more things change, the more they stay the same. With names like Manish Arora, Ashish Soni and J.J. Valaya missing, the new-fangled Hi-5 duo, armed with fancy degrees and international internships, was poised to take over. An over-hyped Prashant Varma chose to amuse rather than impress with his swaggering John Galiano impression. However, it was Varun Sardana who showed promise with a charming collection.
