

COMMERCE

SRCC remains paramount for the 11th year running, LSR moves up, while three new colleges enter the honours list

TOP 10 COLLEGES

2007		2006
1	SRCC, Delhi	1
2	LSR, Delhi	7
3	Loyola College, Chennai	3
4	St. Xavier's College, Kolkata	4
5	Christ College, Bangalore	11
6	Madras Christian College, Chennai	-
7	Symbiosis Society's College of Arts & Commerce, Pune	6
8	Presidency College, Chennai	9
9	St. Joseph's College, Bangalore	8
10	Hansraj College, Delhi	15

National rankings are derived from a combination of perceptual and factual scores. Colleges that did not provide factual information were not ranked. * New entrants in Top 10. (-) Not ranked in the 2006 Top 20.

By Shruti Maheshwari

It was not for nothing that President A.P.J. Abdul Kalam passed on the responsibility for developing creative leadership of the country to Delhi's prestigious Shri Ram College of Commerce (SRCC) when he visited the college this March.

SRCC has put a final seal on its supremacy in the field of education in business and commerce by securing the top slot in the survey for the 11th year running, ahead of Lady Sri Ram College, Delhi and Loyola College, Chennai. In what was a dramatic shift in the commerce stream this time, the Christ College of Bangalore found itself moving up from No. 11 last year to No. 5 this year, a feat accomplished by improved scores on curriculum and other major parameters.

Veritably, srcc has proved itself to be a bastion for commerce and business management over the past eight decades. Apart from its 25 modest classrooms, the college is also unpretentious about the kind of power its alumni wield—they are industry captains, senior bureaucrats, journalists and political top dogs. Students from srcc consistently top at the university level. This year, the first three toppers for Commerce at the university level were from srcc. Besides, a large number of students cleared the exams conducted by Institute of Chartered Accountants of India (ICAI) while some of them made it to the IAS as well.

"The difference that we make to students here," says Principal P.C. Jain, "is to groom them to become global entrepreneurs and not just managers employed in any other organisation." Not surprisingly, srcc graduates think of starting their own organisation before they can even land their first job and get results. "We try to inculcate ethics and values because that is what sustains organisations in the long run," adds Jain.

The stress on values is also reflected in some new ventures being undertaken by the college. PURA or Providing Urban Facilities in Rural