

culture

Brazilian Beats

DELHI To give a cultural dimension to the visit of President Lula da Silva to India, the Brazilian Embassy has organised a mini-festival of Brazilian culture (June 4-12) at the India Habitat Centre. The offerings range from a highly engaging art exhibition at the Visual Arts Gallery (June 4-12), a samba show (June 4-5) and a food fest at the American Diners (June 4-12).

Curated by Alka Pande, the exhibition Brazilian Watercolours draws its title from a 1930s song that refers to the layered and multi-coloured character of Brazilian culture, much like the present festival itself. The exhibition presents works by two quite contrasting Brazilian artists: Regina Silveira and Aurthur Luiz Piza. Silveira, who has participated in the VII Triennale in India, has been celebrated for her fervently imaginative vision that seamlessly merges art with architecture.

Samba performer Cristina photography and video. Piza, who has been living in Paris since 1951, is a painter, printmaker and sculptor who employs a minimalist vocabulary, drawing from the industrial geometry of space and pure colour.

The amphitheatre at the centre will come alive for three days with performances by Teresa Cristina and her group. An impressive presence in the popular music space in Rio and through her music albums and performances throughout the rest of Brazil, Cristina is bound to make Delhi sway to her sensuous samba. Not to be missed.

by S. Kalidas

Works by Silveira; and (above) Piza

theatre

Child's Play

MUMBAI Summer holidays may be drawing to a close but celebrations are still on in the city. The Season of Plays continues at Prithvi Theatre with performances in Hindi and English all through the week. The theatre and the leafy open-sky café come alive every afternoon as kids troop in with parents in tow to catch a show of their favourite play. The festival includes Yatri's Mummy Please, a Hindi play in a pop-up picture book fashion about a fun-loving 12-year-old and his companion Piglu. There is also Ekjute's Sone ki Machhali, an interactive play based on Alexander Pushkin's poem, A Tale of the Fisherman and the Golden Fish. Other plays include Kings' Journey, Almost Twelfth Night, a play by Kat Katha based on William Shakespeare's immortal comedy about twin siblings separated in a sea storm and reunited after many adventures, and Punch-a-tantra, a musical comedy interwoven around stories from Indian folklore. The festival is on till June 10.

by Aditi Pai

A still from the play Sone ki Machhali

music

Singing Divas

BANGALORE The Levi's Ones2Watch music concert is back and this time with a whole new theme. The latest concert will feature an all-women vocal performance. The women participating this year are all relatively well known singers in Bangalore's music circles—Rahael Mathew, Miracle Ward, Jerusha Verghese, Anoop Anand, Sushma Joseph and Participants of the concert Neha Kapoor. They will be accompanied by an all-male band. At the Good Shephard Auditorium on June 16 at 7 p.m. Tickets available at all Levi's outlets.

by Nirmala Ravindran