

TRIPPING POINT

Half the power plants planned over the last five years have still not come on steam due to slackness of the policy machinery

