

More than 100 years old in the US, Good Housekeeping came to India in 2004 through the India Today group. In less than three years, it has grown to be a household name for thousands of urban women across the country. It's a magazine that addresses all the concerns of the mature woman directly and simply, and is at once reader-friendly and inspirational, without being overwhelming. Family, Health, Home, Food and Beauty are the core areas that the magazine dwells on. The articles are well researched and anchored by top experts in all the disciplines. This is a magazine that doesn't simply "tell" you things, it engages in a conversation with you.
