Medanta plans to add 2,950 beds through five green-field projects, expanding into Delhi, Mumbai, Guwahati and Varanasi. The company recently scaled up its Guwahati project into a 650-bed super-speciality hospital. “With a strong balance sheet and deep clinical expertise, we are committed to expanding our network through a disciplined, quality-anchored approach that ensures sustainable growth for all our stakeholders,” says Pankaj Sahni, Group CEO and Director, Medanta.

Max Healthcare is also pursuing an ambitious plan to take its network from around 6,500 beds to more than 10,000 over the next three-four years through projects in Gurugram, Lucknow, Pitampura (Delhi), Zirakpur (Punjab) and Bhubaneswar. Abhay Soi, Chairman and Managing Director, lists nearly 20 cities where he sees opportunities for growth.

Another important expansion route is acquisitions. Fortis Healthcare is strengthening its regional clusters through deals such as People Tree Hospital in Bengaluru and Shrimann Hospital in Jalandhar, while adding management contracts in Greater Noida and Lucknow.

Paras Health, which is preparing for a public listing, plans to add around 800 beds by March 2028 as it expands across North India.

“The opportunity in North India is enormous. Healthcare has to be delivered where people live,” says Dr Dharminder Nagar, Managing Director, Paras Hos-
