One of the major challenges faced by leaders in our current times is balancing priorities leading to reactive-decision making. Conscious leadership enables them to respond thoughtfully to situations and make informed decisions. Nandhiji is an author and a spiritual teacher, recognized for his teachings rooted in the ancient Siddha tradition of South India. His early schooling from Lawrence School, Lovedale, was followed by a Bachelor of Commerce degree from Loyola College, Chennai. He later earned an MBA in International Business and Management from Schiller International University, London.

But it was spirituality that was closest to his heart. Guided by a powerful inner calling, Nandhiji renounced worldly pursuits and began his yogic journey through spiritual austerities in the Siddha tradition. Spiritual pursuits led him to create the CNESSWORKS. Founded in June 2024 in Santa Monica, CNESSWORKS, is a global platform of conscious business confluence that certifies and recognise organisation in conscious excellence. It was officially soft launched earlier this year in March. CNESSWORKS, is the B2B platform of CNESS Inc. It was created to help organizations understand, strengthen, and demonstrate the values that shape how they lead, operate, serve, collaborate, and create impact. CNESSWORKS is building a global trust and visibility ecosystem for organisations that want to be recognised not only for what they do, but for how consciously, ethically, and impactfully they do it. The company is building a structured framework through which consciousness can become measurable, visible, and actionable within organizations.

The foundation of CNESSWORKS rests on a simple question: Can consciousness become a practical standard for enterprise growth?
