

BELA BAJARIA

CHIEF CONTENT OFFICER, NETFLIX

As Netflix's Chief Content Officer, Bela Bajaria's job involves overseeing all its content across markets. That calls for some serious understanding of diverse cultures and their nuances. Of course, there's a $17-billion budget each year. Bajaria, born to Indian parents, spent the first 15 years of her career at CBS. The next stop was Universal Television and then Netflix out of its Los Angeles office, first as Head of Global TV before sliding into content head role. In 2024, she also joined the board of The Coca-Cola Company.

PHOTO BY GETTY IMAGES

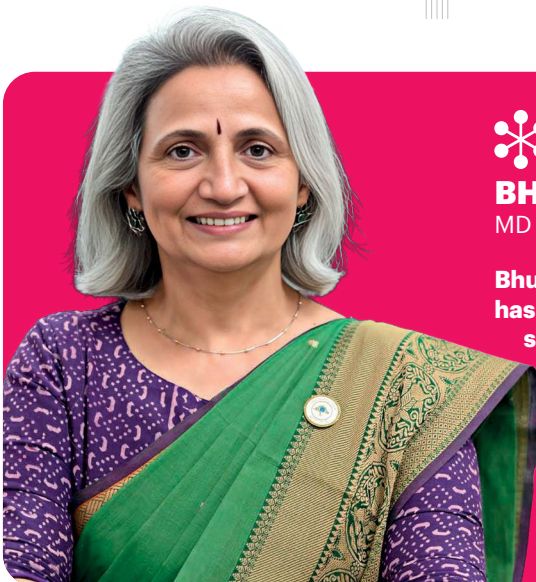

DAISY CHITTILAPILLY

PRESIDENT, CISCO INDIA AND SAARC

Whether it is a trek to Machu Picchu in Peru or her job as President of Cisco's India and SAARC region, Daisy Chittilapilly likes a good challenge. With nearly 30 years of experience in the technology sector—including two decades in leadership roles at Cisco, where she leads strategy, sales, operations, and investments—she has a strong track record of transforming operations and culture at scale. When she's done with her work at the end of the day, she likes to think of the next big adventure trip she wants to take.

PHOTO BY SELVAPRAKASH LAKSHMANAN

BHUVANESHWARI A

MD AND CEO, SBICAP SECURITIES

Bhuvaneshwari A, the new MD and CEO of SBICAP Securities, has set out to democratise research for every investor. A seasoned leader with over 30 years of experience at the State Bank of India, she plans to leverage the group's legacy of trust and innovation to position SBICAP Securities as a digitally driven, customer-centric and innovation-led investment services company. She is looking to strengthen technology platforms, expand the product suite and deepen customer engagement.