

DEENA MEHTA

MD, ASIT C. MEHTA
INVESTMENT
INTERMEDIATES

As Deena Mehta, one of India's pioneering women stockbrokers, has spent decades shaping the market's evolution through reform, technology and investor-first thinking. A CA and MBA, her push to shorten settlement cycles and streamline operations early in her career earned her recognition as a change-maker. Known for her "I can and I will" leadership philosophy, she believes every problem must be fixed, not endured. Under her stewardship, Asit C. Mehta expanded nationwide with strong tech adoption and a 90% cash-market focus. Now in fund management, she remains driven by the markets' vibrancy and believes her best work is still ahead.

GEETANJALI KIRLOSKAR

CHAIRPERSON,
KIRLOSKAR SYSTEMS

Geetanjali Kirloskar, Chairperson of Kirloskar Systems, has spent the past year strengthening Indo-Japanese partnerships, expanding the group's healthcare initiatives, and driving new technology collaborations across mobility and manufacturing. She has also advanced leadership programmes supporting women in industry. She now plans to scale the group's global footprint through strategic alliances, deepen investments in innovation-led businesses, and accelerate social impact projects focused on healthcare access and skill development.

IPSITA DASGUPTA

SENIOR VP & MD, HP INDIA

Ipsita Dasgupta has seen it all. The Managing Director of HP's India Market—covering India, Bangladesh, and Sri Lanka—she has earlier worked across the tech landscape with stints at all the majors: Apple, Amazon, IBM, to name some. In her current role, she is doubling down on the India opportunity and sees strong demand in the market. The firm is planning to increase manufacturing capacity in India since personal computer penetration is still relatively low here.
