

Women in Governance

MAMATA BANERJEE

CHIEF MINISTER, WEST BENGAL

One cannot speak of Mamata Banerjee without mentioning her gumption, especially how she brought down 34 years of Left rule and remained the head of the state since 2011. “Didi”, as she is popularly known, can be credited for introducing many welfare schemes like Kanyashree Prakalpa and Lakshmi Bhandar. The ‘Maa, Maati, Manush’ motto now resonates with the people of Bengal. When the former Union Minister is not delivering her fiery speeches, she can be found penning books, singing, or painting.

ANUPRIYA PATEL

UNION MINISTER OF
STATE, HEALTH & FAMILY
WELFARE AND CHEMICALS
& FERTILISERS

Born on April 28, 1981, Anupriya Patel represents the Mirzapur constituency in the Lok Sabha. In her ministerial role, she works across public health delivery, pharmaceutical regulation, and the chemicals sector. Her responsibilities include reviewing national health schemes, monitoring access to essential medicines and supporting policies related to manufacturing capacities. An alumnus of Delhi University's Lady Shri Ram College, Patel also holds an MBA, and her work draws from both her academic training and experience in public life.

REKHA GUPTA

CHIEF MINISTER, DELHI

Gupta brings decades of political and organisational experience despite being a first-time MLA. Rising from ABVP and later as DUSU President, she built her reputation through sustained grassroots work. As councillor and BJP Mahila Morcha leader, she championed community development, women's education, and welfare. Her 2025 victory from Shalimar Bagh constituency marked the ascent of a leader shaped by discipline, service, and ideological conviction.

MAMATA BANERJEE PHOTO BY ANI; REKHA GUPTA PHOTO BY BANDEEP SINGH
ANUPRIYA PATEL PHOTO BY RAJWANT RAWAT