

profoundly shaped by the vision of her father Desh Bandhu Gupta, Lupin's founder.

In an industry as dynamic and complex as pharmaceuticals, foresight, agility and conviction are indispensable, she says.

FY26 SO FAR

Most companies led by women sustained their performance in FY26. Kaynes Technology posted 76.6% growth in H1FY26 profit at ₹196 crore from ₹110.99 crore a year ago.

Brigade Enterprises reported a 68% jump in profit at ₹328.8 crore. Lupin saw 62.54% growth, while MCX's profit rose 51%.

"Our efforts translated into strong performance, which has continued to hold good in H1 FY26 as well. Taking the cue from the macroeconomic factors driving volatility in commodity markets globally and in In-CDMO segment via a 10-year European contract reinforces our positive stance," says Murarka. Gupta's Lupin, Murarka says, is poised for a strong growth trajectory, driven by high-value launches in North America and India.

"The drug maker has demonstrated robust execution in scaling up new products like Tolvaptan (used for treating a kidney disorder), Mirabegron (a medication for an overactive bladder), Albuterol (an airways medication) and gSpiriva (a respiratory drug), reinforcing confidence in its differentiated pipeline. Margins are expected to expand, supported by a more favourable product mix," she says.

"Apollo Hospitals is set for steady growth, with capacity increasing from 10,200 to 14,600 beds over the next five years and a sustained Ebitda margin of 24%. The diagnostics arm (AHLL) is targeting 15% revenue growth with a 200 bps margin improvement, driven by expansion in primary care and diagnostics. Apollo HealthCo (pharmacy) is expected to deliver 20% revenue CAGR, supported by deeper integration across the healthcare ecosystem and stronger penetration in high-potential emerging cities," says Murarka. AHLL is short for Apollo Health and Lifestyle Ltd.

Analysts say Kaynes' order book is healthy. With a surge in sales, led by robust execution, Q2 saw strong margin expansion on the back of operating leverage and product mix. Elara Securities has upped its estimates on Kaynes Tech for FY26.

Given H1FY26 bookings of ₹3,150 crore, Brigade Enterprises may miss its ₹9,000 crore pre-sales guidance for FY26, Nuvama warns, but says the Bengaluru market can still deliver volume growth and that the pace of launches will determine its sales trajectory going ahead. The securities firm retained its 'Buy' call on the real estate stock.

MCX continues to dominate the commodity futures market (98.9% share as of H1 of FY26) with 100% share in precious metals, 99.4% in energy and 100% in base metals. The exchange has introduced several products, including Silver (30kg) and Silver Mini (5kg) monthly expiry contracts, Cardamom and Nickel futures, and Options on the MCX iCOMDEX Bullion Index (MCX BULLDEX), covering gold and silver. The management has indicated the product pipeline remains robust with necessary regulatory approvals already in place, says MOFSL. The brokerage has raised its FY 2026 earnings estimate for MCX by 21%.

The performance of women-led companies bodes well for investors in search of stellar returns. BT

@amitmudgill

“Agility remains at the heart of how we operate, allowing us to enter new segments quickly and adapt to changing industry dynamics”

JASLEEN KOHLI, MD & CEO, GO DIGIT GENERAL INSURANCE

dia, we intensified our market outreach and business efforts," says Rai.

Supriya Lifescience, Go Digit General Insurance, Apollo Hospitals and Garware Hi-Tech Films reported strong growth of 22-47% in the first half of FY26. Heritage Foods was an exception, with a 16% drop in H1 profits.

WHAT'S AHEAD?

Most stock market analysts are bullish on women-led companies. Deepika Murarka, a healthcare analyst at Choice Institutional Equities, is positive on Lupin, Supriya Lifescience and Apollo Hospitals.

"Supriya Lifescience led by Saloni Wagh has been performing well with Ebitda margin higher than peers, API leadership in niche therapies and demand-driven capacity expansions that support sustained growth. Additionally, its entry into the high-growth, high-value