Projected value of AI-led product engineering business of working in silos. "Leaders and managers were expected to travel significantly. They walked the floors to make sure they were physically visible and accessible," he says. His past HUL experience has also brought a unique style of leadership. "Leadership in trenches is a mantra I picked up at HUL. I have always believed that the best leaders are found in the trenches at the front. They are not found sitting in corporate cocoons," says Singh.

Singh says the next challenges will relate to talent management challenge and re-architecting the talent pool. He believes Coforge's bet on AI puts it in a position of strength as the market shifts. "Rather than treating AI as an overlay, we embedded it into how we engineer, modernise, and run enterprise systems," he says, adding that the company has doubled down on long-term client relationships. BT
