ity mismatches, Cholamandalam “maintained strong credit culture, while diversifying its product suite.”

That is down to the deep focus Subbiah brings. In early 2018, he went on a 1,500-km road trip in a 14-tonne truck, with only the driver and cleaner for company. That was because a good part of Cholamandalam’s loans go to the trucking industry and the trip was a good way to understand the borrowers. The fitness freak did a bit of yoga in the vehicle as well.

Patience and perseverance shine through in the conversation with Subbiah. He often speaks of companies that last for years. “Look at TI, it has been around for 75 years. It’s not really old and we must think of it being around for 200-250 years,” he declares. Institutions evolve and there is no end to that process. “If you don’t evolve, it’s all over, be at the company or an individual level.” That is a philosophy he understands well and practices quite effectively. BT
