

CEMENTING SUCCESS

Madhavkrishna Singhanian, Joint MD and CEO of JK Cement, is scaling up the grey cement business while building adjacent businesses. Sustainability remains a key focus

56 |

BY SURABHI

I

T'S BEEN MORE than half a century since JK Cement began operations from Rajasthan's Nimbahera in 1975 and over 40 years since it pioneered white cement in India. The company has gone through various reinventions over its long journey.

Madhavkrishna Singhanian, Joint Managing Director and CEO of JK Cement, and Raghavpat Singhanian, the Managing Director, are now scaling up the business and moving beyond cement to adjacencies such as paints and construction chemicals.

Madhavkrishna, 37, who was appointed the CEO of JK Cement in 2020 and made Joint MD and CEO last year, says the firm has a clear road map to expand the grey cement capacity to 50 million tonnes per annum (mtpa) by 2030. "Our transformation started around 2014 when we started massive expansion projects. That time, our grey cement capacity was about 10 mtpa," says Singhanian.