THROUGHOUT HIS CAREER, Nehal Vora, Managing Director and CEO of Central Depository Services (India) Ltd (CDSL), India's largest depository by number demat accounts that maintains ownership records of shares and securities, has chosen the more challenging path over the comfortable one. Starting as a young MBA graduate who did not join the family business, he opted for a role with modest pay at the new regulator, the Securities and Exchange Board of India, in the mid-90s. It promised learning and a larger canvas.

Over the years, he continued to step into unfamiliar
