THE 30TH EDITION of Business Today's Banking & Economy Summit saw the best minds of the financial sector and government converge at the NSE atrium in Mumbai. The event saw the attendance of the who's who of the banking and finance industry—including former RBI Governor Shaktikanta Das, who is now the Principal Secretary to the Prime Minister, and economist Ashima Goyal.

At the event, 18 awards were presented across banking, NBFC and fintech sectors, with policymakers and industry leaders discussing AI, capital market expansion, and the road to a Viksit Bharat. The Lifetime Achievement Award was conferred on Das, who was the keynote speaker. The rest of the awards were divided in two categories—Jury and Non-Jury. The jury recognised ICI-CI Bank as Bank of the Year, while HSBC India was recognised for innovation among foreign banks.

Alongside the awards, the programme brought together policymakers, bankers, fintech leaders and market experts for discussions on the evolving financial landscape. AI was, understandably, a recurring theme across sessions, particularly in conversations around the future of banking.

Marking three decades, this year's edition highlighted both the achievements of India's financial institutions and structural shifts. Read on! BT
