

Since its inception in 2006, Star Health Insurance has processed over 12 million claims and an industry-leading amount of ₹54,000 crore in claims settlement.

The Covid period saw a substantial surge in claims volume and payments, demonstrating our robust claims management capabilities and commitment to customer support during challenging times.

offerings, and expanding distribution channels.

On the claims side, there has been a shift in consumer behaviour post-Covid. We see more hospital admissions for common ailments such as infections and fevers, which people would previously manage through outpatient treatments or consultations with their family physicians.

This increase in hospitalisation has impacted innovation, and transparency. Innovation is in our DNA and we have been pioneers in bringing many firsts to the health insurance industry. Our latest industry-first product, SuperStar, is an innovative health insurance plan offering unparalleled flexibility and customisation with 21 optional covers in addition to the exhaustive list of base covers that we have.

Outpatient consultations, health check-ups, diagnostics, and even medicine costs are areas we are looking to integrate into our products. We already have products in this space that are performing well, but we are working on multiple variations to cater to different customer needs.

Insurance in India typically does not cover dental and eye care. We see a significant opportunity in these areas and we are working with healthcare providers to develop specific plans for this.

“TWO KEY CONCERNS STAND OUT FOR THE HEALTH INSURANCE SECTOR: RISING MEDICAL INFLATION & INSURANCE FRAUD”

On the business front, health insurance businesses saw a massive spike during Covid as people became highly conscious of their health. Many new customers entered the market.

As the pandemic effect wears off, health insurance has once again become a product that is heavily marketed, unlike during the pandemic when demand was organic.

We plan to maintain growth momentum through technological innovation, new product claim volumes. Our goal is to provide the highest quality treatment options to our customers in all parts of the country.

To address this, we are investing in expanding our network of hospitals, telemedicine services, wellness programmes, and also home healthcare services.

What product innovations are you focussing on?

Star Health Insurance is built on the core values of customer-centricity, for the policy to fit their specific needs, choosing from unique features like ‘Freeze-your-Age’, ‘Limitless Care’, ‘SuperStar Bonus’, ‘Wellness Programs’, and ‘Premium Waiver’. The SuperStar product has achieved remarkable success, driving fresh growth for the business. It has also become the top-selling product on our digital platform and also on leading web aggregators and digital partner platforms.

OPD coverage represents a key priority in our products portfolio.

Would you consider entering the life insurance segment if the composite licence model is introduced?

We have been closely monitoring this potential change. We have engaged a consulting firm to develop a strategic plan for us, evaluating both defensive and expansion strategies.

Given our strong brand name, distribution network and loyal customer base, expanding into adjacent lines of insurance is certainly of interest and a natural extension. However, we would need to assess the regulatory requirements and capital implications before making a final decision. BT
