

Louis Vuitton Tambour Convergence (Rose Gold)

► THE RESULT OF the joint expertise of the Louis Vuitton ateliers in Geneva—La Fabrique du Temps (movement design), La Fabrique des Boîtiers (case-making), and La Fabrique des Arts (rare handcrafts) is the Louis Vuitton Tambour Convergence. The 37mm watch has an unconventional design where the sculpted window on the watch face reveals the hours and minutes, while the rest of the watch face is mirror-polished in a reflective pink gold, adding to the retro charm. It has an open case back that exposes its inner workings.

Hublot Big Bang Meca 10 42mm

► HUBLOT HAS ALWAYS been coveted by watch aficionados for its technological innovations, especially its skeletal design which allows one to look directly at the watch's complex mechanics. When it launched the original Big Bang Meca 10 in 2016, in a 45mm size, it was considered an engineering masterpiece. Now it has gone a step further and has launched it in 42mm. The new version is available in titanium, King Gold (an exclusive Hublot alloy that adds a luxurious touch), and carbon. The watch, which has a manual winding movement and a 10-day power reserve, is fully luminous and comes with a rubber strap
