

WINE AND DINE

1. On the banks of the Nira River lies the town of Akluj, home to the Fratelli Vineyards, spread over 240 acres

2. A day trip costs ₹1,500, which includes a visit to the winery along with a tasting

3. Indulge in the multifarious notes of wine at different vineyards in the country

Nowadays, Sula witnesses a significant number of over 0.35 million footfalls annually. An entry ticket of ₹600 (₹1,000 on weekends) is a cover charge that can be redeemed for tours and tastings at the vineyard. Enjoy a tour of the wine making facilities with an expert guide, learn the intricacies of wine making, and attend a tasting masterclass, where you get to taste five-six varieties of wines.

For those who would like to enjoy a weekend at Sula, it offers two resorts—The Source and Beyond—with rooms priced in the ₹10,000-12,000 range.

While Sula is the pioneer, it is not the only one. Other wineries such as Chandon offer wine tours as well. Also based in Nashik, just a few kilometres from Sula, the two wineries together have added to the economy of the small Maharashtrian town that is now referred to as the wine capital of India.

Today there are numerous home stays and small hotels across the city.

At Chandon, you can opt for the Petite Tour & Tasting (₹750 per person) for a tour of the wine gallery and a tasting session (excluding food pairings); or the
