DOING IT RIGHT CARE's festival founder and chef Norbert Niederkofler plating a dish at his three-Michelin-starred Atelier Moessmer in Brunico, Italy ski down the slopes, for those like me who are not champion skiers, lessons are included in the festival's offerings.

"We don't have a planet B, so we should take care of planet A," says Niederkofler, whose passion for nature has inspired other famous chefs like Ana Roš, Rodolfo Guzman, José Avillez, Prateek Sadhu, and Darren Teoh to participate each year. Weekend activities include sunrise hikes and foraging excursions up the mountains, local wine appreciation sessions, collaborative meals using regional produce, unique barbecues and cookouts, and late-night after-parties at local dive bars.
