

THE BUZZ

14 |

TECH

BLUE CHAOS

The CrowdStrike outage has revealed the chinks in the world's tech armour. Where do we go from here?

BY PRIYA SINGH

► ON JULY 19, 2024, the world witnessed an unexpected and widespread technological disruption. A routine software update from cybersecurity firm CrowdStrike triggered a significant global IT outage, affecting approximately 8.5 million Windows devices. Tech giant Microsoft, which provided these figures, highlighted the event as a stark reminder of the interconnectedness and fragility of our modern technology infrastructure. This incident not only disrupted daily operations for millions but also underscored the delicate balance that keeps our digital world running smoothly.

PHOTO BY GETTY IMAGES