

SHARMILA AGARWAL

THE ARTISTIC GENIUS WITH A LARGE HEART

Artists often favor a particular medium, but some excel across many forms of expression. Sharmila Agarwal is one such versatile talent, showcasing exceptional skills across various artistic fields.

Sharmila Agarwal defies easy categorization. She is not only an accomplished artist but also a compassionate individual who empathizes deeply with others. Her sensitivity allows her to experience and express herself through diverse artistic mediums, and she actively helps those in need.

For over twenty-two years, Sharmila has been practicing Ikebana, the Japanese art of flower arrangement. Based in Hyderabad, she holds a Master's degree from the Ohara School of Ikebana in Japan and has earned the prestigious title of "Koyo," meaning an orange maple leaf in Japanese.

Sharmila finds great joy in teaching Ikebana to children, valuing their eagerness and quick learning. Many of her students have become Ikebana teachers and masters themselves. She founded the Active Teacher's Association of Ikebana in Hyderabad and has given demonstrations at international festivals, including in Shanghai. Sharmila has also authored four popular books on Ikebana.

A gifted individual, Sharmila excels across artistic domains. She is an accomplished author, poet, and painter. She eloquently states, "In the ocean of art, one cannot choose any one form over the other. Every art has its unique charm, and it is up to us how we approach it. We are empowered by the art that we practice. It has the power to change our psychology, social identity, thought process, and shape our endeavors."

Sharmila Agarwal

Director

Sharmila's poetry books, including Chand-Lamhe and Kaha-Unkaha, have been well received, with Lafzon ki Potlee being her third poetry collection. Her artwork has been displayed in several solo and group exhibitions in Hyderabad. As a contemporary miniature painting artist, her work is praised for its positive approach and intricate details. Her upcoming book, Inner Reflections, is a catalog of her paintings accompanied by verses, set to be released soon. Sharmila finds great pleasure in working with paper and creating contemporary miniatures inspired by traditional Indian miniature paintings. Her art captures moments, allowing viewers to imagine the stories before and after. Spirituality, calmness, and positivity are paramount in her work, reflecting her inner values.

Sharmila believes, "Creativity is a gift! It is a blessing! It is the superior power which connects you to the supreme. This world is called temporary; they say nothing is permanent here, things keep on moving, appearing and disappearing. Life has its own circle, but creativity has its permanent presence and receives new honors at every transmission."

As the founder of Prisha Publications LLP, Sharmila has created a platform for writers and authors. With the motto, "You create, we design, print and publish on international vista for you," she supports creativity by publishing most books on Kindle and offering professional guidance and workshops for upcoming writers.

Sharmila's passion and dedication to art and artists are truly commendable.

SHARMILA'S ANTHOLOGY:

Ikebana, Japani Pushpkala: The first Hindi book on Ohara Ikebana, covering its history and various forms.

Ikebana for Beginners - Fun with Flowers: Introduces basic and advanced Ikebana styles with colorful illustrations.

Ikebanists Around the World: An anthology featuring Ikebana artists from 17 countries sharing their journeys.

Ikebana Sulabham: The only Telugu book on Ikebana, teaching basics to advanced levels with 90 images.

Ikebana Drawing and Coloring Books: A set of 10 books featuring dot and line drawings for sketching and coloring Ikebana arrangements.

Inner Reflections: A catalog of paintings with accompanying verses.

Chand Lamhe: A collection of Hindi poems with English transliteration, exploring everyday moments.

Kaha Ankaha: A Hindi poetry book.

Lafzon ki Potlee: A collection of Hindi poems.