ESCAPING THE MIDDLE-INCOME TRAP

Arvind Panagariya, Chairman, 16th Finance Commission

Reflecting on the country's economic performance, Panagariya stated, "India has grown in current dollars at 10% a year. If we stay on course, we could reach about $31-32 trillion by 2046-47, but I think we can do better"

He emphasised the importance of further liberalisation of trade policies, suggesting that India's trade-to-GDP ratio could approach 50% if tariffs are lowered, and Free Trade Agreements with like-minded countries are pursued

Panagariya also highlighted the need for structural reforms, particularly in labour-intensive sectors. He pointed out that capital is currently concentrated in industries that do not employ a large number of workers, a situation that needs to change

"Our dream is to make India the food basket of the world, not just meeting our own needs but also catering to global demands," he said, adding that the growth rate of agriculture stood at 4.6%

He also emphasised the importance of seed production, and outlined a five-point strategy focussing on increasing production, reducing production costs, and ensuring fair prices
