N.K. Singh, Former Chairman, 15th Finance Commission of India

N. K. Singh addressed critical issues surrounding regulatory reforms. Singh emphasised the importance of institutional independence and said there is a need for an overhaul in the way regulators are selected and how they function

He also called for legislative changes to enhance the autonomy and effectiveness of regulators, stressing that their independence is crucial for improving the quality of civil service operations

When asked about the relevance of public sector telecom companies today, Singh said there is a need for these entities to survive in a competitive market
