

INDIA'S PATH TO NET ZERO

Vikram Gandhi, Gerald P. Kaminsky
Senior Lecturer of Business Administration, Harvard
Business School

Financial gap remains a significant obstacle for Indian corporates in adopting essential low-carbon technologies, Gandhi said, highlighting the need for substantial financial support to bolster India's climate strategy

Gandhi stressed the importance of innovation and strategic partnerships, suggesting that both public and private sectors must collaborate. "Creation of new financial instruments and fostering foreign investments in sustainable projects could be pivotal steps forward," he said

