

RIDERS OF THE STORM

As extreme weather events rise, the demand for parametric insurance is growing among companies looking to hedge against climate-related risk in their portfolios. How successful will this be?

BY RICHA SHARMA

The increase in climate events has given a push to parametric insurance products in India

Coverage provided to hedge against impact of extreme weather events on livelihoods and businesses

There are 12 products already in the market and customised products are being launched by major players in the insurance and re-insurance arena