The number of art fairs is expected to reach 377 in 2024 globally, as per the Art Market 2023 report. This is a major jump from 2020, when it dropped to 133, but it is still not as high as 408, as it was in 2019

4 The Armory Show, New York

The Armory Show has been a cornerstone of New York City's cultural landscape since 1994. As the city's predominant art fair, it hosts leading international modern and contemporary art galleries. Last year saw over 225 galleries from 35 countries. While it initially introduced trending European artists to America, it now showcases top international talents alongside New York's best artists. The 2024 edition is scheduled to take place at the Jacob K. Javits Convention Center in September.

5 Art Cologne, Germany

Established in 1967, Art Cologne hosts around 200 international galleries and serves as a vibrant stage for diverse artistic expressions—from paintings and sculptures to photographs, installations, and video art. What started as a project to put new life into the lacklustre art market of then West Germany and promote new art by young German artists, today plays a decisive role in the growth of the international art market. The 57th edition of Art Cologne will take place in November 2024.
