

mukh Adhia noted that the IFSC is the first choice for investors, attributing it to the exceptional financial regulations implemented there.

He also underlined the need to improve social infrastructure in the city and said that the team was working on a second phase with about 2,000-3,000 acres of land that will be mainly for residential purposes and driven by private investors with top social infrastructure support provided by GIFT City. He added that the regulatory framework is being tweaked to facilitate aircraft leasing.

GIFT CITY IS primed for action. The GIFT IFSC, which is a special economic zone, currently houses 580 operational entities. These include three exchanges (including an international bullion exchange), 25 banks (nine of them being foreign ones), 29 insurance entities, two foreign universities, 26 aircraft lessors, 40 fintech entities and more than 50 professional services providers—such as consulting firms, law firms, and accountancy firms. At GIFT IFSC, the total banking assets are estimated at more than $52 billion and 80 funds have about $25 billion in committed investments.
