

④ (From left) Siddharth Zarabi, Managing Editor, Business Today TV; Jay Chaudhry, Founder, Chairman & CEO, Zscaler Inc.; Sanjeev Joshipura, Executive Director, Indiaspora; and Romal Shetty, Chief Executive Officer, Deloitte South Asia

⑤ Siddharth Zarabi (left) with Henrique Braun, EVP & President, International Development, The Coca-Cola Company

⑥ Rahul Kanwal (left) with Martin Wolf, Chief Economics Commentator, Financial Times

⑦ Rahul Kanwal with Hardeep Singh Puri, Minister for Petroleum & Natural Gas and Housing & Urban Affairs

top business magnates including Gautam Adani, Sanjiv Bajaj, Kumar Mangalam Birla, N. Chandrasekaran, Prashant Ruia, Nadir Godrej, Roshni Nadar Malhotra and Rishad Premji, among others, joined the discussions at the forum.

Can India seize its moment was a question that was asked and answered several times over. In a post on LinkedIn, Adani Group Chairman Gautam Adani wrote, “The general consensus was that while India is well on its way to approaching the $30-trillion GDP target by 2050, it has the potential for even higher growth, given its young workforce.”

Pointing out that India was at a very special moment for a number of reasons, Ray Dalio, Founder of Bridgewater Associates—the world’s largest hedge fund—said, “India is not burdened by an excessive amount of debt and it is now at the take-off point. With the combination of education and economics, enough money to invest in the right things, and the way that it’s dealing with technology and in this environment, it strikes me very much similar to where China was when Deng Xiaoping came to power. And so in my opinion, you have a great leader in Prime Minister Narendra Modi.”