

THE BUZZ

BYJU'S

WHATEVER IT TAKES

Byju Raveendran's decision to pledge personal assets to meet salary obligations at his firm is being seen by some as proof of his commitment, but others are worried

BY BINU PAUL

PHOTO BY BANDEEP SINGH

► THERE COULD BE no starker reminder that the good times of 2021 have come to an end than edtech major Byju's Founder Byju Raveendran pledging his assets, including an under-construction villa and family homes valued at around ₹100 crore. The beleaguered firm resorted to this decision to meet the salary obligations of a portion of its employees.

Raveendran's move indicates

₹100
crore

THE ESTIMATED VALUE OF BYJU
RAVEENDRAN'S
PLEGGED PROPERTIES

that he is anticipating a fresh infusion of funds and is taking this substantial risk to navigate the current cash crisis. It also demonstrates his commitment to his staff and is being seen as an attempt to lift their battered morale by assuring them that he'll do whatever it takes to keep the business running.

"It demonstrates a level of commitment from the founder to ensure