

Samarthya : The 'Samarthya' sub-scheme brings together elements from previous schemes such as Ujjwala, Swadhar Greh and Working Women Hostel, albeit with certain modifications. Furthermore, it integrates existing schemes like the National Creche Scheme for children of working mothers and the Pradhan Mantri Matru Vandana Yojana, both of which were originally under the umbrella of ICDS. In an innovative addition to Samarthya, a new component known as Gap Funding for Economic Empowerment has been introduced. This sub-scheme primarily aims to empower women through various means and provide them with tools for economic self-sufficiency.

Progressive Initiatives Reshaping Tomorrow Mukhyamantri Kanya Sumangla Yojana

In the vast expanse of societal challenges, entrenched issues like female feticide, imbalanced sex ratios, child marriage and pervasive negative perceptions within families erect formidable barriers. These obstacles become hurdles, impeding girls and women from realizing their fundamental rights, spanning realms such as protection, health and education. Uttar Pradesh responds with a beacon of innovation, unveiling the transformative "Mukhyamantri Kanya Sumangla Yojana." This scheme emerges as a potential game-changer, addressing the dual challenges of providing social security and fostering holistic development for girl children.

The implementation of the Mukhyamantri Kanya Sumangla Yojana involves six stages:

- On the birth of a girl child, Rs. 2000 is provided.
- Full vaccination for up to one year is rewarded with Rs. 1000.
- Admission to class 1 is acknowledged with Rs. 2000.
- Enrolment in Standard 6 is accompanied by Rs. 2000.
- Enrolment in Standard 9 is provided by Rs. 3000.
- After passing class 10/12 and enrolling in a bachelor's degree or at least a 2 year certified diploma course, Rs. 5000 is granted.

Mukhyamantri Samuhik Vivah Yojana

In October 2017, the state government launched the "Mukhyamantri Samuhik Vivah Yojana" as part of its commitment to fostering communal and social cohesion. This program orchestrates wedding ceremonies following the customs and traditions of diverse communities and religions, with the additional goal of curbing unnecessary extravagance in wedding celebrations.

As part of the initiative, a sum of Rs. 35,000 is deposited into the bride's bank account to ensure the establishment of a happy and well-equipped household. Additionally, the scheme provides the couple with essential wedding materials, including clothing, jewellery and utensils, valued at Rs. 10,000. Moreover, an allocation of Rs. 6,000 is set aside to cover the expenses of each wedding, resulting in a total assistance of Rs. 51,000 provided per marriage.

“The state government is committed to ensuring respect of every daughter and every woman of the state as well as their self-reliance. There is no place on the soil of new Uttar Pradesh for those who try to tarnish the dignity and self-respect of women”

-Yogi Adityanath
Chief Minister, Uttar Pradesh
