

Non-metro towns are fast emerging as start-up hubs as an increasing number of founders are looking at Tier II and III locations to launch their ventures. While there are challenges, the opportunities seem to be immense

BY ASHISH RUKHAIYAR

PAULA MARIWALA

FOUNDING PARTNER,
AUREOLIS VENTURES;
FOUNDER, STANFORD
ANGELS

“Today, many individuals in the non-metro towns want to be entrepreneurs... the last few years have seen the emergence of so-called ‘Bharat’ sectors that can be launched from Tier II/III towns and stay closer to their target audience”