Food and beverage curator Eshaan Kashyap's label Tablescape by Eshaan has quietly redefined tablescaping in India. Prices for tableware range between ₹750 and ₹1,50,000 tands, cutlery that feels like jewellery.”

Kashyap registered his brand in 2018, when the term “table-scape” barely existed in India. Now, he designs for corporate events, destination weddings and home dinners. He is currently working on a multiple-city wedding—Bangkok, Cairo, Marrakesh— where each city inspires a different mood board of table décor and plating. “Clients now bring on board the chef, the florist, the production person and the tablescaping artist and ask us all to create magic together.”

The scale is staggering. For a client’s 50th birthday, Kashyap created a setting inspired by 80 countries, one for each destination the host had visited. Interestingly, his biggest buyers aren’t just from Delhi or Mumbai, but from Kanpur, Coimbatore, and Punjab, where home entertaining has become a badge of taste.

Beyond Grazing Tables

If the early 2010s were about grazing tables—overflowing displays of food and flowers—today’s hosts are telling quieter, more curated stories.
