

MUND DEALS

• It is no more a discretionary choice but a strategic imperative

	COUNTRY	SECTOR	VALUE ($ BN)	DEAL TYPE
	UK	Manufacturing	12.2	Acquisition
	Africa	Telecom	10.7	Acquisition
	USA	Cement	8.5	Merger
	USA	Manufacturing	6	Acquisition
	USA	Agriculture and forestry	4.2	Acquisition
	UK	Telecom	4	Minority stake
	India	Energy and natural resources	3.5	Acquisition
	USA	Pharma, healthcare and biotech	3.3	Acquisition
	UK	Oil & Gas	2.8	Acquisition
	USA	IT & ITeS	2.7	Acquisition
	South Africa	Energy and natural resources	2.6	Minority stake
	USA	Manufacturing	2.6	Acquisition
	South Africa	Energy and natural resources	2.5	Minority stake
	UK	Automotive	2.3	Acquisition

109

NOTE *ACQUIRED FROM HOLCIM WHICH HAS OVERSEAS OPERATIONS SOURCE GRANT THORNTON

panies in each market. It helped in understanding the environment a lot better,” he says. The tactic did work overtime, and he shares data to prove the point. Of the top 10 banks in the world, TCS works with six of the top ten retailers, apart from the top ten pharmaceutical companies. “The other thing was recognising talent available across the world. This led to setting up global delivery centres,” he says. Overall, local talent is what drives the business.

While M&As work for companies from sectors like automobiles, infrastructure, FMCG, among others, companies from the IT/ITES sector are involved in creating joint ventures, partnerships, or collaborating with overseas companies. The turn of the millennium wasn’t just symbolic; it exposed a deep flaw in global computer systems and provided a bigger opportunity for India’s IT industry.

Ramachandran says the momentum had to stay. “It became clear that TCS or Indian IT companies in general could help with