GUARANTEE RIGHT TO HEALTH THROUGH A NEW LAW

► Enact a Universal Health Coverage Guarantee Law to make healthcare a justiciable right for every Indian citizen. This law should obligate both the Centre and states to provide access to essential health services, irrespective of income, geography, or employment status. This will ensure service continuity, accountability, and reduced out-of-pocket expenses. It should define a clear package of primary and secondary services, and create mechanisms for grievance redressal.

BUILD AN INDIAN CDC

► India must establish a National Disease Control and Surveillance Agency—an autonomous body with a dedicated budget and legal mandate to function as the equivalent of the US Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC). This agency should coordinate real-time outbreak responses, track emerging infectious diseases, and maintain national health intelligence systems. It should also facilitate data-driven research, global collaboration, and public health preparedness for future pandemics and emergencies.

NO HOSPITAL LICENCE WITHOUT ACCREDITATION

► To improve quality and accountability in healthcare, make accreditation from the NABH (National Accreditation Board for Hospitals) or equivalent body mandatory for all private hospitals. Link accreditation to essential regulatory incentives—such as empanelment in public insurance schemes, tax exemptions, and licence renewals. This will enforce uniform standards in clinical care, patient safety, infection control, and grievance redressal.
