

INDIA'S FUTURES & OPTIONS

Ashishkumar Chauhan,
MD & CEO, NSE India

● In a session titled “Long or Short: India’s Future & Options”, NSE India CEO Ashishkumar Chauhan discussed the evolution of Indian financial markets

● He explained why derivatives are not suited for inexperienced or low net-worth investors, and emphasised the importance of investor education and regulatory safeguards

VIKSIT BANKING

Amitabh Chaudhry, MD & CEO,
Axis Bank

● Chaudhry expressed confidence in India’s financial capacity to achieve Viksit Bharat status. He asserted that both public and private banks are profitable, under-leveraged, and capable of raising capital domestically or globally

● Chaudhry emphasised that opportunities are vast, entrepreneurship is thriving, and innovative funding channels are emerging. In his view, capital availability is not the constraint—the priority should be leveraging these resources effectively to capture growth

ROLE OF PSUs

Arunish Chawla, Secretary,
Department of Investment and Public Asset
Management (DIPAM)

● Chawla outlined the government’s continued focus on a comprehensive and calibrated approach to disinvestment, asserting that investor confidence remains strong despite global headwinds

● Addressing the future of disinvestment, he stated that the government would not put big-ticket listings or follow-on offers on the back burner

FROM CRISIS TO REFORM

Montek Singh Ahluwalia
Former Deputy Chairman,
Planning Commission

● Addressing India’s trade relationship with China, he emphasised that while security concerns must take precedence, economic engagement should not be dismissed

● He criticised US’ trade policy under President Donald Trump, calling it “bullying”, and warned against protectionism
