

even beyond, to Ahmedabad in the West.

With new bets in senior living, residential, commercial, hospitality and retail segments, Bengaluru's share in Brigade's property portfolio has dropped to 70% from as much as 95% and is expected to fall more going ahead.

This expansion, however, brings intensified competition from local and regional real estate entities, as well as cyclical challenges inherent to the Indian real estate sector.

That doesn't worry Pavitra Shankar, who tells BT that meticulous planning and financial prudence had ensured Brigade never loses control in the process of accelerating growth.

"The focus is on growing in a stable, sustainable manner—not chasing growth at the cost of adding more risk," she says. "This business is inherently risky. So why add more layers of risk—like inventory or financial exposure—unnecessarily?"

STAYING GROUNDED

That philosophy has kept Brigade grounded and discouraged reckless expansion outside of Bengaluru.

Pavitra Shankar says Bengaluru's share of Brigade's property portfolio may drop to 60% next year with major launches planned in growth markets like Hyderabad and Chennai.

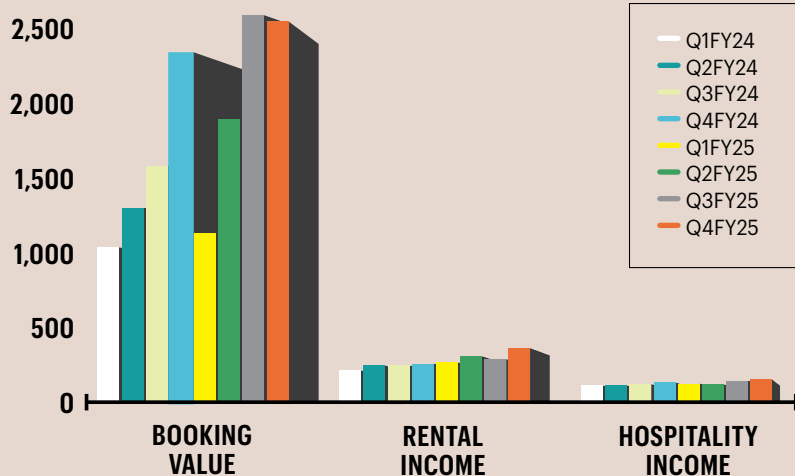

One of the reasons that led her to focus beyond Bengaluru was the hyper competition in the city's real estate market. "Everyone wants a piece of it. It already has many large, established players in residential, office, and hospitality."

Analysts at Geojit Financial Services say Brigade has performed strongly over the past year.

"Looking ahead, Brigade is well-positioned to sustain sales momentum with a robust pipeline and solid inventory. Further, the company's strategic land acquisitions in prime areas enhance its ability to tap into long-term demand, while upcoming annuity projects

RIISING INCOME

Though booking value has dipped a bit, rental income has risen

NOTE FIGURES IN ₹ CRORE SOURCE COMPANY, MOSL

"The focus is on growing in a stable, sustainable manner, not chasing growth at the cost of adding more risk. This business is inherently risky. So why add more risk—like inventory—unnecessarily?"

PAVITRA SHANKAR
MD, BRIGADE ENTERPRISES